How will my son be assessed?

- Students will be asked to fill in self-assessment forms to identify their skills
- In-class assessment where students will be given verbal feedback
- Homework and flexible assessment such as projects and research
- Students will be tested on a weekly basis including short vocabulary and grammar tests.
- An end of unit test testing them on each of the four skills on a specific topic will also take place every half term.
- Assessment for Learning will be present in lessons as an on-going and continuous process. Students will be asked to reflect and act upon teacher's feedback after they have completed an extended task

How can I support my son with French?

- A simple bilingual dictionary will be very useful for your child. These are easily available through most book shops.
- Sharing the learning of the new vocabulary for either language with your child should be a fun activity and will make them feel much more positive about the difficulties of learning a completely new language.
- Always ensure that your son has a quiet place in which to work and monitor the amount and quality of work that he completes at home.
- Encourage your son to teach you the language he has acquired in lessons and to use the language websites as it's free and very efficient.
- Encourage your son to go to the college library where there is an area that has been stocked with French and reading material to develop independent reading.
- Ensure that he completes his homework
